G. R. Davis Found Guilty, But Mercy is Recommended.

George R. Davis was convicted of embezzlement in Criminal Court, No. 1, to the period and extent of the actual and voluntary cessation of some parts of the work, etc., ordinarily included in the operation of the court. When the verdict was announced, Col. Fred Beall, counsel for the defendant, stated to the court that he would possibly file a motion for a new trial on Monday.

The case was submitted to the jury at 11 o'clock a. m., and at 12:10 o'clock p. m. the jurors returned to the courtroom and strucked by the conflict as to the period and extent of the actual and voluntary cessation of some parts of the work, etc., ordinarily included in the operation of a pickyard.

"Without regard to what the facts may be respecting the alleged cessation of such operation. I am of the opinion that section 171 of the building regulations as amended December 29, 1900, 'could not have retroactive effect; and that, therefore, the provision 'that if and any time thereafter the establishment is not operated for the purpose for which the period and extent of the actual and voluntary cessation of some parts of the work, etc., ordinarily included in the op-peration of a pickyard.
